Events and Happenings at San Francisco Public Library

March 2026

Vol. 57 No. 3

One Book, One Coast

The regional reading initiative One Book, One Coast unites libraries and communities across California, Oregon and Washington around a shared book and conversation. The 2026 selection, They Called Us Enemy, is George Takei's graphic memoir of his childhood incarceration during World War II. Read along and attend the programs happening March through May 2026 to join the discussions it inspires.

Pick up They Called Us Enemy in print or as an eBook this spring. Find it on Libby or on display at your local library, and join readers in San Francisco and across the coast. See sfpl.org/one-book-one-coast for more information.

Women's History Month: Two Gale Databases You Can Use

In celebration of Women's History Month, we highlight two databases of special interest:

Contemporary Women's Issues (Gale) covers women's studies literature from journals, newsletters and reports from 1992 to the present.

LGBTQ–Archives of Sexuality and Gender (Gale) covers historical, cultural, policy, political, psychology and health studies related to LGBTQIA+ and women's history, activism and related issues from 1940 to the present.

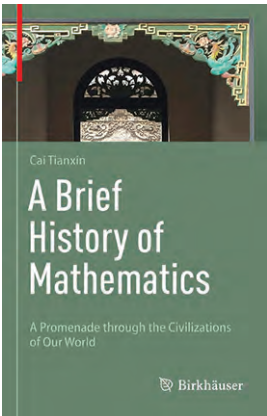

We invite you to explore these databases for research as well as personal enrichment. Accessible from the library's website, sfpl.org, under Research and Learn, both databases provide advanced search, peer-reviewed publications, full text plus citation capability and more useful features. Whether you are interested in historical or contemporary aspects of women's issues, they are invaluable tools, hidden gems among our electronic resources.

Collections Corner: Faith Petric and the San Francisco Folk Music Club Archives

A political radical, community organizer and performer, Faith Petric left an enduring mark on San Francisco's folk music scene. In 2012, she donated the archives of the San Francisco Folk Music Club (SFFMC) to the San Francisco History Center, preserving decades of music history. Founded in 1948 by Dave Rothkop, the SFFMC was reorganized in 1959 by Herb Jager, and in 1962 Petric took the helm, guiding the club through a period of growth and activism.

In 1964, SFFMC began publishing The Folknik, a bimonthly newsletter that documented performances, politics and community life. Dedicated to the dissemination and preservation of folk music, SFFMC brought together singers, instrumentalists, songwriters, dancers and devoted listeners.

Collection includes meeting minutes, newsletters, member directories, correspondence, flyers and buttons—and is open for research. Join us at the Main Library for a screening of Singing for Justice, the documentary celebrating Faith Petric's life and legacy.

Fae Myenne Ng's Orphan Bachelors

What happens when immigration laws leave generations of men cut off from family, home and a sense of belonging? In Orphan Bachelors, Fae Myenne Ng tells an intimate immigrant story shaped by the Chinese Exclusion era. Drawing on her childhood in San Francisco's Chinatown, Ng brings forward the lives of isolated men whose quiet endurance formed the backdrop of her family life.

Blending memoir with social history, Ng reveals how policy becomes personal, shaping identity, responsibility and survival across generations. Her compassionate and precise storytelling illuminates the emotional costs of exclusion alongside the resilience it produced. Orphan Bachelors is a moving meditation on inheritance, memory and the long afterlife of laws that fractured families and communities.

Discover a New Neighborhood with Us

Explore San Francisco's Dogpatch neighborhood during this guided Small Business Stroll presented by the Library's Small Business Center in partnership with the Dogpatch Art & Business Association. Known as a hub for artists, makers, manufacturers and creative entrepreneurs, the Dogpatch offers a dynamic mix of independently owned businesses such as Dogpatch Games, Natasha Tsozik Tattoo Studio and Museum of Craft and Design. Participants walk the corridor together and stop at six local shops to hear the stories behind the storefronts. Each stop includes a brief Q&A with a business owner or manager, followed by time to shop, browse and connect. Celebrate Dogpatch's makers, artists and entrepreneurs—one stop at a time.

Dogpatch Small Business Stroll – March 14, 2–5 p.m., Woods Yard Park (22nd and Minnesota Streets). Learn more: on.sfpl.org/dogpatchstroll

The mission of Friends of the San Francisco Public Library is to support, strengthen and advocate for a premier San Francisco Public Library.

Spring Forward with the San Francisco Public Library

Spring has a way of encouraging us to reset—to clear out closets, refresh routines and make room for what comes next. It’s a season of possibility. And for many San Franciscans, this sense of renewal can begin at the Library, sometimes in unexpected ways.

This spring, try something new at the San Francisco Public Library. Attend an author talk, explore a free class, join a branch book club or discover a digital resource you didn’t know you had access to. For example, did you know you could explore new places through the Discover & Go program? Your local library can help you discover a new museum, theater, aquarium, zoo or science center! The Library is a place for curiosity without cost, where experimentation doesn’t require a subscription or a purchase, only a willingness to learn and explore.

A powerful conversation at the Main Library with Isis Asare and New York Times bestselling author Tomi Adeyemi.

Spring cleaning can also be an opportunity to give back. Donating your gently used books to the Friends of the San Francisco Public Library helps extend the life of stories, ensuring that each loved book has the opportunity to match with new people. Your gifts of support—demonstrated through both your personal philanthropy and your books—allows the Friends of the San Francisco Public Library to help the Library bring more programs, books and resources to the community. Your partnership with the Friends ensures that the Library stays a vibrant, welcoming place for everyone.
